The name Treana symbolizes a trinity of natural elements – the sun, the soil, and the ocean – elements that make Paso Robles, and the rest of the Central Coast, an exceptional area for wine grapes.

Treana wines reflect local terroir and climate: rolling hills, calcareous soils, warm summer days tempered by cool afternoon ocean breezes.

Hope Family Wines

This family-owned winery, located in Paso Robles, focuses on the characteristics of each varietal produced. The ultimate goal is to make a fruit focused wine that preserves the secondary aromas while maintaining structure. This balance translates throughout our five labels; Treana, Troublemaker, Candor, Liberty School & Austin Hope.

Liberty School

Syrah, Grenache and Rousanne express themselves individually in Austin Hope wines. They reveal Paso Robles warm climate by achieving honest fruit ripeness but preserve the grapes famous secondary aromas showcasing their Rhone heritage. The commitment to quality starts in the vineyard with low yields, ideal spacing and detailed canopy management. This commitment is continued in the winery with the use of extended soaking, lees contact and punch downs. Finally, ultimate texture and complexity is achieved with the blend of the finest French Oak. Three grapes, three wines, one defined style, Austin Hope.
